

Faded Grey/Brown Face Planed Barn Siding

Our face planed gray/brown reclaimed barn wood siding incorporates a mixed hardwood species, but we skip plane and sand the surface to create a much different aesthetic. Faded Gray/Brown face planed reclaimed barn wood siding is characterized by contrast. Parts of each board are planed down to reveal the raw quality of old growth timber underneath the weathering, while parts are left untouched to display their hard-earned antique patina. By simultaneously displaying the aged and natural state of each board, this contrast celebrates the beauty created by decades of exposure and the quality of timber it took to weather the elements.
